PBS Michiana – WNIT

In Jacqueline Woodson's The Day You Begin, a little girl walks into a classroom carrying everything that makes her different — her lunch, her stories, her whole world — and wonders whether any of it will belong there. Every child knows that moment. Most adults do, too.

This month, we're airing the animated special of The Day You Begin, and I can't think of a more perfect story for this time of year. Back to school is about supplies and new shoes and schedules. But even more, it's about the courage it takes to walk into a new room and decide to fully be there.

I'm thinking about that courage a lot right now. My daughter starts kindergarten this fall, and our whole household is balancing the excitement and the weight of that at once. She'll carry her own whole world through that door, and I hope it finds a home.

What I know, as a parent and as someone who has spent years in public media, is that children who feel seen before they enter the classroom carry themselves differently once they get there. PBS KIDS does that every day. Through storytelling and characters who look, sound, and explore like they do, children learn that their experiences matter. They build the emotional vocabulary they need to walk into new rooms with their whole selves intact.

This doesn't end at childhood. Curiosity doesn't have an expiration date. All of us, at every age and stage of life, deserve stories that challenge us, reflect us, and remind us that there is always more to learn. That's what public media is for. That's what PBS Michiana – WNIT is for. That's what you make possible.

Whether you're sending a child off to school, starting a new chapter of your own, or just looking for something that sparks your curiosity, I hope you'll join us this month. You never know where the next beginning might lead.

Sincerely,

Amanda Miller Kelley
President & General Manager

Before Silicon Valley ruled the world, there was the 1990s and Jane is about to discover just how dangerous technology, ambition and freedom can be. What Kind of Paradise by Janelle Brown is smart, suspenseful and impossible to put down.

April Lindinsky is joined by WNIT President & General Manager Amanda Miller Kelley. Kelley laughs that the book is so good, and she refuses to be insulted by the fact the protagonist is basically her own age yet the book is called "historical fiction."

Education Counts Michiana explores education across northwest Indiana and southwest Michigan. This show highlights programs, practices, and conversations that help communities learn and grow.

Countdown to Kindergarten provides a free kindergarten-readiness camp for hundreds of children in Elkhart County. The initiative is designed to help kids learn and grow while bringing economic relief for families.

The EdCounts Podcast explores the wide world of education through conversations with experts! Science, school choice, language, mental health, you name it - our goal is to help you learn about topics and trends that matter to you.

Coming Soon! An episode about chronic absenteeism and ways to address the issue so that students aren't missing time in school.

Looking for the perfect summer outing? On this week's Experience Michiana, Courtney visits NIBCO Water & Ice Park, where fun for the whole family is just getting started!

From roller skating and rollerblading along the ribbon path to cooling off at the splash pad, there's something for everyone to enjoy. Courtney even takes a spin around the trail—with a little help along the way!

The fun doesn't stop there! On select evenings, the park comes alive with live music, delicious food, and special events, making it a great place to spend a summer night with family and friends.

Come see why NIBCO Water & Ice Park is one of Michiana's coolest summer destinations!

Great food with an even greater purpose! On this week's Experience Michiana, Dave visits It's All Good Food Truck to discover how every meal served is helping change lives.

Dave talks with Mechelle about the delicious menu that keeps customers coming back, but it's the mission behind the food truck that makes it truly special. The truck provides opportunities for people connected with Fellowship Missions to gain valuable work experience as they work toward recovery, confidence, and independence.

Even better, every purchase helps support the many programs at Fellowship Missions as they serve those experiencing homelessness and addiction in our community.

Come hungry, leave inspired, and see how good food can do so much good.

“The Midwest Program on Airborne Television Instruction (MPATI) was not officially PBS, though it operated with similar educational goals. Active in the 1960s, MPATI was a pioneering, non-profit organization that broadcasted classroom lessons from airplanes flying over north-central Indiana to schools across six states. Because it was created to bring educational television to schools before the widespread availability of cable and satellite, it is often remembered alongside classic public television initiatives. PBS itself was officially established later, launching in October 1970.”

BACK TO SCHOOL

For Parents>>>

School is back in session! Explore different topics, such as coping with back-to-school anxieties and emotions, creating daily routines, and tackling common situations that arise with the start of school. Ease the transition with some fun lunch box or after school snacks and downtime activities.

Easing Anxiety About Going Back to School

It's perfectly natural for even the most enthusiastic young learner to feel nervous and uncertain. A new school year comes with a new classroom, a new teacher, and new classmates. The classroom rules and routines are likely to change, as are the behavioral and academic expectations. It's a lot to manage when you're young. Here are some ways you can help manage some of that back-to-school anxiety with your child.

Educators ~

We have amazing, free, state-aligned, educational resources that supplement classroom materials to facilitate teaching and learning. Our content is developed with education experts to ensure high-quality content that meets learning goals. I love to share our resources with educators. If you are an educator who wants to learn more about our resources and how to use them, I'd love to visit your school. I can offer 1-on-1 sessions or share a group presentation.

THE DAY YOU BEGIN

A Back-to-School Special!

Premieres August 7

The Day You Begin is a production of Atomic Cartoons. © 2025 Atomic Cartoons (DVR) Inc. All rights reserved. PBS KIDS and the PBS KIDS Logo are trademarks owned by Public Broadcasting Service. Used with permission.

Atomic Cartoons' new original special The Day You Begin is based on the New York Times bestselling picture book of the same name by MacArthur Fellow, National Book Award and Newbery Honor-winning author Jacqueline Woodson. The special follows kindergartners Angelina, Rigoberto, Minjin and Andre on their first day of school, and is told from each of their points of view to create an interconnecting narrative.

They each have different experiences in the same classroom, and throughout the course of the day at school, the kids learn what makes them unique and what connects them to others. With comedy and heart, The Day You Begin demystifies this universal experience for children and strives to inspire its viewers to celebrate their differences.

August 7 @ 8am on 34.1

Lifelong Learning on Create!

Celebrate National Wellness Month during the entire month of August.

It's time to prioritize your self-care, reduce stress, and create healthier habits to feel like your best self!

National Wellness Month was born out of the idea that if we are going to do big things in the world, we need to take care of ourselves, too.

There is an abundance of programming on Create (channel 34.2 or livestream here) to begin exploring or continue your journey of living and wellness.

Also, for kids' back-to-school nerves, establishing routines, and more, be sure to check out page 26 and explore the link to PBS Parents.

Cozy Mysteries Coming in September!

The village of Marlow's delightfully nosy threesome—retired archaeologist Judith Potts, dog walker Suzie Harris, and vicar's spouse Becks Starling—are now firmly embedded in DI Tanika Malik's investigations. Their unconventional methods are needed more than ever as the town's beloved mayor drops dead, and a notoriously disliked chef is killed on his restaurant's opening night. When Becks becomes a murder suspect at her university reunion, the trio's hard-won reputation is on the line.

Marble Hall Murders is the third and final installment of best-selling novelist Anthony Horowitz's Susan Ryeland series. Lesley Manville (The Crown) returns as Susan, an editor with a knack for stumbling into baffling real-life murders. This time, she's pulled into an Atticus Pünd mystery story set in 1955 Corfu, with Tim McMullan (Enola Holmes 2) reprising the unflappable detective who leaps off the page to help crack the case. But who's the victim? And who's hiding in plain sight?
